Julius Cherry Is Among Sacramento’s Top Attorneys

Longtime attorney Archon Julius Cherry of Sacramento, California’s Gamma Epsilon Boulé was named by his peers in the August 15, 2015, issue of Sacramento Magazine as one of Sacramento’s top attorneys in the specialty area of bankruptcy debtor and creditor. Archon Cherry is CEO of the Cherry Consulting Group, which provides advisory services on local government issues. He also teaches business law as an adjunct professor for the Los Rios Community College District.

Archon Cherry retired from the Sacramento Fire Department as fire chief in 2007 after more than thirty years of service. Prior to becoming chief, he held the ranks of firefighter, captain, battalion chief, assistant chief and deputy chief of support services. A veteran of the United States Air Force, he attended night school while working as a fireman to earn a bachelor of science degree in public administration from California State University, Sacramento, and a law degree from McGeorge School of Law. Archon Cherry, who resides in Sacramento with his Archousa, Donna Cherry, has three daughters, one son and four grandchildren.

Lawdragon Recognizes Daniels for Civic and Legal Work

Milwaukee’s Beta Alpha Boulé Archon John W. Daniels, Jr., chairman emeritus of Quarles & Brady, LLP, a national law firm, was honored in August 2015 for both his civic and legal leadership and his impact on corporate law. He was selected by Lawdragon, the leading legal periodical of attorneys, as one of the premier 500 lawyers in the United States. This rare recognition was a testament to his career as a corporate and real estate lawyer.

Archon Daniels, among his other accomplishments, was national president of the prestigious American College of Real Estate Lawyers. He and Ben Wilson, the chairman of Beveridge & Diamond, PC, instituted a national effort with major law firms and general counsel to significantly increase diversity in corporate legal engagements. A national network of the finest African American lawyers has been created, including experts in the most complicated legal areas. This is an unprecedented effort in the United States.

In addition, Archon Daniels, who is chairman of V&J Foods, one of largest family-owned African American companies in the country, was named Mr. Executive as part of the business Hall of Fame initiative in 2015. This recognition was extended because of his impact on growing and developing business enterprises. A Harvard Law graduate, he is the chairman of Aurora Health Care, Inc., the largest health system in Wisconsin, with revenues exceeding $4.5 billion.

Quarles & Brady is a full-service AmLaw 200 firm with more than 475 attorneys offering an array of legal services to corporate and individual clients that range from small entrepreneurial businesses to Fortune 100 companies, with practice focuses in health care and life sciences, business law, labor and employment, real estate, data privacy and security, and complex litigation.
